FROM THE CLERGY
WAIT, YOU DON’’T KNOW WHAT AN ELI TALK IS?
Have you seen the amazing ELI Talk by…? Wait, you don’t know what an ELI Talk is?

If you haven’t heard of ELI Talks, you’ve probably heard of ELI’s older sibling, TED. The now ubiquitous TED Talk phenomenon began in 1984 with a conference bringing together some of the most interesting thinkers in the fields of Technology, Entertainment, and Design (T-E-D). At that first conference, an elite invitation-only audience learned about cutting-edge technology like CDs and e-books, among other innovations. The first conference lost money, but six years later it took off and became an annual gathering. The speakers broadened to include scientists, philosophers, musicians, business and religious leaders, philanthropists and many others. Today, high school students might be assigned TED Talks as homework to watch or as a format to replicate. Even if you’ve never seen or listened to a TED Talk, I imagine you’ve heard of them. And if you haven’t, rest assured that someone who has created, innovated, or developed an item or service you use regularly has learned from a TED Talk. A TED Talk is a thing.

So, what’s an ELI Talk? The same, but Jewish.

ELI Talks began in 2012 at the North American Jewish Day School Conference as a production of The AVI CHAI Foundation. ELI Talks originally centered on the themes of Jewish religious engagement, Jewish literacy, and/or Jewish identity (E-L-I). Today, like TED Talks, the scope has broadened to include “examples of Judaism’s relevance to the big and small issues of our lives; [ELI] transmits inspired Jewish ideas to people everywhere through a curated digital media canon that speaks directly to the hearts and the minds of viewers” (avichai.org).

Too often, when we think about Jewish learning, we conjure up dusty old tractates of Talmud. Obviously, there’s nothing wrong with a dusty tractate! But Jewish learning, Jewish inspiration, and Jewish innovation now take all sorts of media forms, among them the ELI Talk. If you’re computer-savvy, check out elitalks.org and spend some time browsing around. I’m sure you’ll find something worth watching!

I decided to write my column this month about ELI Talks because I was personally inspired watching Ilana Kaufman’s ELI Talk about the evolving racial and ethnic makeup of the American Jewish community. Ilana is the Executive Director of Jews of Color: Field Building Initiative. She was here in Baltimore speaking to key leaders from The Associated, community rabbis and activists, and an invited group of about 100 Jews of color, including several BHC members. You’ll find her thought-provoking talk under the Community tab. It’s worth watching – maybe even a few times.

As with all good learning, ELI Talks are not an end in themselves, but rather are meant to foster reflection, conversation and growth. Let me know if you watch one or several. I’d love to hear what thoughts they inspire. Then we’ll pull out the dusty books they are based on and learn some more together.

- Rabbi Sachs-Kohen

FROM THE PRESIDENT

CELEBRATING THE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE LIBERATION OF AUSCHWITZ-BIRKENAU BY FIGHTING ANTISEMITISM

The world marked the 75th anniversary of the liberation of the Nazi concentration and death camp at Auschwitz-Birkenau in late January of this year. Solemn ceremonies around the world included a ceremony in Jerusalem attended by dozens of world leaders who urged collective vigilance against a resurgence of antisemitism worldwide. As the number of survivors of the monstrous crimes of the Holocaust dwindle in number, there is growing concern about the efforts by leaders to bend the historical narrative of World War II to suit their own needs.

The ceremony at Auschwitz was designed to focus on fighting antisemitism and giving survivors one more chance to tell their stories. The Holocaust remains a critical area of research for many historians and is a staple of school curriculums in many countries. However, we should be concerned that the memory of what happened at the camps and beyond is fading among younger generations. Many Jewish organizations have urged governments across the world to toughen antisemitism laws in their countries as well as promote Holocaust education. Many survivors spoke about how words alone are no longer enough. Laws must be passed, and children need to be educated and know where the hatred of Jews leads.

As a community, we can continue to make sure our schools teach the Holocaust’s tragic story. Education is such an important tool to combat the evil and indifference to which lack of education leads. We continue to teach these historical values in our education program here at BHC, and we should all fight for the same throughout our Maryland area. In this regard, please attend the 60th Annual Interfaith Institute here at BHC on March 16. Rabbi Busch will moderate the discussion on Understanding Contemporary Antisemitism. The keynote speaker is Doron Ezickson of the ADL. I am so proud that Rabbi Busch co-chairs the Community Task Force on Antisemitism and giving survivors one more chance to tell their stories.

Our BHC education has been in such good hands for the past ten years under the leadership of Brad Cohen. As you know by now, Brad and his family will be leaving Baltimore at the end of June to return to Colorado, a place dear to them. They will be missed tremendously. We have already begun the search for a replacement, led by a Search Committee chaired by Melissa Lenet. We will keep you updated. Our Youth Education program and Next Gen have been growing over the past decade and we will all work to make sure that trend continues.

As our education on Antisemitism evolves, we will focus on the joys and ethics of being Jewish. As Jews, we are bearers of a magnificent tradition that we express through religious, intellectual, and other contexts. Despite the best efforts of so many generations to harm us or even annihilate us, we celebrate the tradition that is ours and all it has given to the world.

BYLAWS REVIEW COMMITTEE
Every five years, the Congregation reviews and revises the Bylaws, to the extent appropriate. To that end, a red-lined comparison version of the Bylaws showing the 2015 version and the proposed revisions for our 2020 version is posted online in our website so that all revisions may be reviewed by all members of the Congregation.

While we encourage a thorough review of that comparison version, for ease and not as a substitute, the proposed revisions to the Bylaws can be generally reflected in six categories:

I. Gender neutrality (10.1), Format, Font, Spacing, Typos, Grammar and Consistency;
II. 3.1 Changes to clean up the prior provision addressing the 24 - 18 reduction and to address the role of participants on the Board;
III. 4.4 Nominating Committee to change from 60 days to 90 days to fill vacancies;
IV. 5.7 as to participation by telephone/video-conferencing;
V. 5.9 as to attendance at executive sessions of the Board; and
VI. 8.1.2, 8.1.3 and 8.3 revisions

The proposed revisions and any questions will be addressed at our April 17 Annual Meeting for consideration and a vote of the membership for approval.

60TH ANNUAL INTERFAITH INSTITUTE

Women of BHC will hold its 60th Annual Interfaith Institute, Monday, March 16, 9:30 AM-2 PM. Our vital and timely topic is Understanding Contemporary Antisemitism. Our Keynote speaker is Doron Ezickson, Regional Director of the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of Washington, D.C. Responders of different races and religions will take part. On our panel of experts are: Marietta English, President, American Federation of Teachers-Maryland and Samuel Scott, Elijah Cummings Youth Program and Rabbi Busch is our moderator.

Marietta English has the heart of an educator. She spent over three decades as a classroom teacher in grades Pre-K to 8th grade. She was also a special education teacher, consultant, and mentor before becoming an adjunct professor in adult education programs at Coppin State University.

English is the current president of the American Federation of Teachers-Maryland and has been for 13 years. She is also the former president of the Baltimore Teachers Union, a role she held for 21 years. In her role as a labor leader she has fought for fair wages and improved working conditions for Baltimore City Public School teachers, paraprofessionals and school related personnel. She’s also been on the front line fighting for state and local public employees, leading AFT-Maryland’s campaign “Some Cuts Don’t Heal,” protecting state workers’ jobs.

Samuel Scott was selected as a participant in the Elijah Cummings Youth Program in Israel during his junior year in high school. He experienced a month-long excursion in Israel, leadership workshops, and community service while experiencing Jewish culture. Scott has maintained close ties with the Jewish community and is serving as a board member and vice chairman of the Elijah Cummings Youth Program in Israel. In addition, Scott is the President of Bluerock Development, a company that rehabilitates distressed properties in low to moderate income areas in Baltimore City. He is also President of Bluerock Realtors, a real estate brokerage firm that works with buyers and sellers in the Baltimore Metropolitan Area. He is a strong advocate and supporter of programs that support the community.

The Institute is acknowledged to be one of the exceptional programs BHC offers the community, bringing together members of all faiths to approach issues of universal importance from their multiple perspective. The program will begin at 10 AM, followed by lunch at NOON. The cost for this event is $18, which includes a box lunch. Advance registration is required. This important program is co-sponsored by the Alice Hecht Memorial Fund, Bernice S. Kramer Memorial Fund and Women of Baltimore Hebrew Congregation.

Most mornings, I walk my dog, Buster, in the 6 AM darkness. While on our walks I usually listen to a podcast. My podcast subscriptions are very eclectic ranging from current events to baseball to early childhood education. One morning I decided to listen to Welcome To The Neighborhood: A Mister Rogers Tribute Podcast. Today’s episode was titled “Fred Rogers Quotes @ MisterRogerSay.” Growing up I was more of a Sesame Street and Electric Company fan, but looking back I wish I had watched more Mr. Rogers’ Neighborhood. When I attended the National Association for the Education of Young Children Conference (NAEYC), I was fortunate to attend the keynote address given by his wife, Joanne Rogers. I began thinking how Mr. Rogers’ messages are timeless and are very appropriate for 2020.

Each classroom at the E.B. Hirsh Early Childhood Center is its own unique neighborhood. Teachers are guiding the children on how to be good “neighbors” to their classmates and to their teachers. Depending on their age, children will show kindness in a variety of ways. Even our older infants, recognize when a classmate is sad and will go get the friend’s pacifier or sippy cup. In most classrooms, kindness is shown by greeting friends in the morning or saying goodbye at the end of the day, offering to play together on the playground, complimenting each other on artistic masterpieces and saying please and thank you. This is also the Jewish Value of Derekh Eretz- showing kindness and respect. A little kindness goes a long way, no matter the age. It is the following quote that made me think of the children and teachers at E.B. Hirsh Early Childhood Center,

“There are three ways to ultimate success: The first way is to be kind. The second way is to be kind. The third way is to be kind.”

“From the time you were very little, you’ve had people who have smiled you into smiling, people who have talked you into talking, sung you into singing, loved you into loving.”

Director, Jennifer Platt
